

“I oppose any change or repeal of the current ban on homosexuality in the armed forces. The armed forces have always placed military effectiveness above individual needs. This is one of the core concepts that has made the U.S. military one of the most effective combat forces in history. To introduce openly gay men and women without serious regard for the consequences could severely damage the security and morale of our nation’s armed forces.”

-- Rep. Gene Taylor (D-Miss.)